New Business

Talked to Rose through the phone about how to grade art for the competitions. These are the following suggestions that were made:

- Think about the art objectively
- Think about what the students learned during the year
- Learn how to grade based on age ability
- Keep away implicit bias
- The art should mean something
- The kid is driven to create art when nobody is watching
- Have a bio with materials used
- What inspired them and what the hardest thing was for them to do will help us get clues about the artwork
- Look for imagination and kids that broke free from the assignment and looked at parker in an original way
